WELCOME To The Wedding Social Co.

Where creativity, drive, and ambition come to collaborate!

The Wedding Social Co. is Newcastle's coolest wedding community. We're for vendors and couples wanting to do things differently. For vendors, the Social Co. is where creativity, work ethic, and ambition come to collaborate. We offer co-working options, educational events, networking, community, and exposure. For couples, the Social Co. is the key to making wedding planning enjoyable, simple, and well-informed. We empower couples with educational events, a one-stop shop of choice, and multi-vendor offers to save you money.

WHY BOOK MY VENDORS FROM TWSCO?

When you're booking your vendors you want to think of them as a team, Of course they're a team!

But when you think about it, you're bringing a whole bunch of people together who have never worked together before, When you think of a team you think of people who know how each other work, who know what each other need, that is exactly what The Wedding Social Co is.

The vendors at TWSCo know the ins and outs of each others businesses, they know how to work together to give the best result and because we're all working together day in, day out in the office, it means less organising for you, we'll have it figured out for you!

TWSCO IS THE ANSWER!

So if you've got one of us booked for your wedding, you need all of us!

CO FOUNDER SAM - SILENT SHOUT

OUTSIDE THE 9 - 5

Silent Shout was born from Sam's days in the club scene, and the taste he got for how music can make people feel. Today, Silent Shout dub themselves 'sicker than your average' - a reputation they've lived up to by providing wedding entertainment outside of the box, heavily personalised for each couple, that takes risks with genre, artists, and timing.

TWSCO: Why do you do what you do?

SAM: I guess for me it was a bit of a journey to get to a point where I knew this was exactly what I wanted to be doing. It all started 10 years ago when I first started DJing and trying and trying and finally getting into the club circuit which was what I had always wanted. From there I was playing so many sets all over town and travelling around a bit for festivals and gigs. I was just doing the odd wedding here and there, and people would ask if I could do theirs. I was sort of fighting that off for a couple of years as I really wanted the club / touring DJ life. At that point I was all about it (the club scene) & I did get some incredible opportunities, but the weddings were there - clipping my heels and I just all of a sudden saw it; there are people out there that love music just as much as I do and I could bring this vibe and style to these people through their wedding day. I thought I should bring club quality DJ sets to a wedding and make that a thing. Looking back at the past 2 years of doing this - in particular, it's a cool feeling and a good decision to bring that quality and point of difference through music.

TWSCO: Why do you do what you do?

KC: I always worked in bars and wanted to own one but the logistics of running a bar wasn't the kind of stress I wanted in my life. Weddings were the ideal job. I still get to run a bar but I don't have the downsides to deal with.

TWSCO: Do you do weddings full time? If yes, can you tell us how you felt when you made the jump? If no, what's stopping you?

KC: To do weddings full time I had to put the extra effort in working on my business through the week, to get to a point of it being my sole income. It's definitely still a full time job.

TWSCO: What do you think has been a key reason for the success of your business?

KC: My fear of failing. I could never go back to working for someone else, so if I fail I'm screwed. I'd rather work 20 hours a day for myself than work for 5 for someone else.

TWSCO: What's next for you?

KC: I'll keep building caravan bars!
